"What's the Star Trek?"

"I don't watch Star Trek."

"It's not just a TV show, it's a religion. I know all about warp field dynamics and the principles behind the transporter. I have memorized the TECH manual. I speak Klingon. I go to cons with Vulcan ears on. I have no life."

"It's the best show around. I have all the episodes and the movies on tape and can quote entire scenes verbatim. I've built a few of the model kits too. But you'll never catch me at one of those conventions. Those people are kooks."

"It's a damn fine TV show and is one of the only things good on television any more."

"It's just another TV show"

"Maybe it is just me, but I have no idea what the big deal with Star Trek is. Perhaps I'm missing something but I just think it is bad drama."

"Star Trek is just another Space Opera. William Shatner isn't an actor, he's a snob! And what's with this Jean-Luc Picard? A Frenchman with a British accent? Come on. I'd only watch this show if my remote control broke. Isn't Voyager just a rehash of Lost in Space? Has Sisko even breathed in the last two seasons?"

"Star Trek SUCKS! It is the worst crap I have ever seen! Hey, all you trekkies out there, GET A LIFE! (William Shatner is a tool)"

"Finally a show that shows what a real future would look like. None of this Picardian 'Let's talk about it and be friends' crap. And what's this? We finally get to see a bathroom! Over on that Enterprise, they've been holding it for over seven years!"

"Babylon 5 certainly presents a fresh perspective in the Sci-Fi universe. I watch it weekly."

"I've seen it, I am pretty indifferent to it."

"This show is sub-par. The acting is wooden, the special effects are obviously poor quality. In general, it seems like a very cheap Star Trek ripoff."

"You call this Sci-Fi? That is such a load of crap! This show is just a soap with bad actors, piss-poor effects, and lame storylines. Puh-leese."
